

The Hag at the Churn (Viola)

Jig

Ireland

Da Capo (back to start of tune)

Irish folklore claimed witches would inhabit a churn to steal the butter and this tune was played to rid the churn of the witch. The tune is highly unusual for a jig as each part is only played once through whereas all other jigs have their parts repeated.